Projects/Initiatives

The Ministry of Education of Azerbaijan convened a project “Teaching Human Development in Secondary Schools” in 1997 on an experimental basis. The objective of the project was to establish common human values and relationships between the individual, society and the new world view. A campaign to improve social education was conducted and workshops and discussions were held by governmental and non-governmental organizations to increase awareness of sustainable development. The result of the project was increase in Azerbaijan’s Human Development Index. The teachers and pupils learned the importance of Sustainable Development, and began to take this understanding into their life and work.
